Dear Visual Management Systems,

Just a quick note to let you know how happy we are with our new security visual system. It has made a big difference in the way employees conduct themselves knowing that the boss is constantly watching. Just last week while going through the previous recordings, we discovered that one of our employees was leaving the premises for one hour every day (five days a week at a cost of thirteen dollars per hour a grand total of sixty-five dollars per week). As we discovered the system actually pays for itself.
